This notification must be in the form of a written document prepared by the office of the Dean of Students. Verbal notification is not acceptable, nor is written notification after the absence. Work will be due the class following the missed absence.

Code of Conduct

As a student at South Plains College, you are expected to act in an adult manner. Most students' exhibit appropriate behavior in class, but it is sometimes necessary to define what "appropriate" behavior is. The following code of conduct is in force for this class and is not negotiable. It is designed to create an educational environment in which all participants have the opportunity to be successful. These rules are especially important since the course involves a great deal of listening to music. As a student in this class, you are expected to abide by all of the rules outlined in this document. If you feel that you cannot meet these expectations, you should not remain in this class.

1. Class begins promptly at the beginning of the class period. You should be in your seat and ready to start participating in class at that time. (book out, handouts, ready to take notes...)
2. If you are so tired that you cannot keep your head up, you should leave. Many factors can contribute to sleepiness, but laying your head on the desk or sleeping in class is rude, distracting, and indicates that you have no interest in participating in class. I will try to keep things interesting, but my primary goal is to educate you, not to entertain you.
3. Turn your cell phone OFF before the start of class. Text messaging is not allowed during class. I need your full attention during the period. Put up your phone!!!
4. Do not hold conversations of any form with people sitting around you. This includes whispering and passing notes. This is extremely distracting to me and your fellow students. You should be focused on the lesson of the day.
5. Do not study material from other classes or read books during this class. If you feel that you must spend our class time studying or doing other homework, please go to the library or the study lounge. You will then be counted absent. Laptops must be closed during periods of listening. Make sure you have your own class materials.

6. Please do not cause any other types of distraction such as clicking pens, flipping through notebooks, ripping papers, etc. There should be no activity during periods of listening except for quiet listening.
7. If emergencies arise that require an absence from class, be sure to get the information that was covered in class from a colleague you trust. Expecting the professor to outline the class session in an independent message to you is not realistic.
8. The content of the course, policies outlined in the syllabus, and code of conduct are set and not negotiable.
9. The time to be concerned about your grade is in the first fourteen weeks of class, not in the last week. There will be opportunities to earn extra credit. It is your responsibility to keep up with your grades and attendance.
10. Do not start putting materials away and zipping up backpacks before the end of the class period. There is sufficient time for you to get to your next class without disrupting the last few minutes of this class.
11. If you must wear a hat due to the blinding sunlight in our classroom, please wear it in a manner in which I clearly can see your eyes. This makes me feel like you are listening to me. Hats WILL BE removed during exams.
12. Do not argue with the instructor about grades or attendance! CHEATING will not be tolerated!!
13. Please ask questions and be engaged in class. Also, please attempt to answer questions in class.
14. Be courteous to your fellow students and to the professor.

YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR YOURSELF: i.e. KEEPING UP WITH GRADES, ATTENDANCE, ETC.

By taking this course, you acknowledge your acceptance of these terms. Failure to abide by these rules will result in reduction of participation grade, expulsion from class, or other disciplinary measures at the discretion of the instructor.
